ARABIC 114-0
CONVERSATION & CULTURE IN THE ARAB WORLD: EGYPTIAN ARABIC

- June 20-July 15
- MTWThF 4:00PM-5:30PM
- Ragy Mikhaeel, Instructor

Egyptian Arabic is the everyday language spoken by Egyptians in homes and on the street, and in Egyptian television, entertainment, cinema and commercial advertising. The Egyptian dialect is the most widespread dialect in the Arab world. The course is strongly recommended for students, undergraduate or graduate, who wish to explore this important spoken variety of Arabic and who have at least a basic understanding of MSA. This course is an excellent preparation for students whose focus is to speak Arabic the way Arabs speak in everyday life, such as students who are planning to study abroad in the Arab world, students doing research in anthropology or sociology, and students of linguistics and dialectology.

Prerequisite: Arabic 111-2, or instructor's consent.
